Instructions

If you die before retirement, your beneficiaries may be eligible for death and/or survivor benefits. So read this information carefully before designating your beneficiary(ies).

It is important that you complete this form and return it to SamCERA. You should designate individuals to be your primary and contingent beneficiaries. The same person cannot be both.

Make sure you understand the difference between “Primary” and “Contingent” beneficiary designations.

- Primary Beneficiary: The person(s) or entity(ies) who would receive your benefit upon your death. Depending upon when you die, your surviving spouse, registered domestic partner* or minor children may be eligible to receive a monthly benefit. If you do not have a surviving spouse, registered domestic partner, or eligible minor child, any primary beneficiaries you name will receive a one-time lump sum benefit only.
- Contingent Beneficiary: The person(s) or entity(ies) who would receive a benefit only if all your primary beneficiaries die before you. Contingent beneficiaries are eligible for a lump sum payment only.

You can list more than one person as a primary beneficiary and more than one person as a contingent beneficiary. If you list more than one person in each of these categories, those individuals will share any benefit that is received. Because they will share the benefit, you must also indicate the percentage of the benefit that you would like each person to receive. The percentages within each designation must add up to 100%.

If you have a spouse, registered domestic partner, or eligible minor child, their rights and claims to receive a monthly allowance may be superior to and supersede the rights of any other named beneficiary.

If you do not have a spouse, registered domestic partner, or eligible minor child, and you die before retirement, any beneficiaries you name will receive a one-time lump sum benefit only. They will not be eligible to receive a monthly allowance.

During your employment, it is important to keep your beneficiary designation current to reflect changes in your personal life. For example, you may get married, divorced, or have children. As an active member, you may change your beneficiary designation until the date that you retire. After you retire, you may only change certain beneficiary designations for those persons who are to receive a lump sum payment.

At retirement, you will complete a new beneficiary form and the survivor benefits will be paid in accordance with what retirement option you elect.

* Please note that for the purpose of spousal benefits, domestic partnerships must be registered with the California Secretary of State. (State requirements for domestic partnership are different than those for a County of San Mateo Affidavit of Domestic Partnership.)
